

Supplementary Figure 1. RT-PCR showing EAAT5 amplification products from retina, liver, kidney, pancreas, small intestine, large intestine, heart, lung and skeletal muscle; negative control (water blank). A dominant amplicon of 655-bp is evident in all tissues examined (corresponding to wild-type EAAT5), with additional smaller amplicons in most lanes.

